

Every shift briefed. Every brief on record.

BRIEFED gives air medical and flight programs one standard pre-duty brief for every pilot, a recorded handoff at every shift change, and a live view that shows leaders, in seconds, which bases are up to date and which are behind.

THE PROBLEM

Briefing is happening. Proving it is the hard part.

Pre-duty briefs live in binders, whiteboards, group texts and a dozen weather websites. Each base does it a little differently, handoffs depend on who remembers to mention what, and pulling records for a safety review or accreditation visit takes days.

- ✓ No consistent standard across bases and pilots
- ✓ No reliable view of which shifts were briefed
- ✓ Information lost at shift change
- ✓ Records that are hard to find and harder to defend

BRIEFED replaces all of it with one guided brief, built on official FAA and National Weather Service data, on any phone, tablet or computer, with every brief time-stamped and tied to the pilot, aircraft, base and shift.

Weather and hazard data come directly from official sources: the NWS Aviation Weather Center (METARs, TAFs, AIRMETs, SIGMETs, CWAs) and the FAA (NOTAMs, TFRs, WeatherCams).
